Key Observations and Learnings

Accreditation plays an integral role in our endeavour for continuous quality improvement of programs and services. As a staff driven initiative, PQI captures key elements, summarizes the scale of the work being accomplished and ensures accountability measures are in place.

Surveys	Surveys continue to play a vital role in understanding the value of services being delivered to clients and the quality of relationships with community organizations, businesses and government stakeholders. All programs note high levels of client satisfaction, however, agency wide, we endeavour to increase survey response rate by creatively engaging all levels of stakeholders.
Community Connections	LCSS places high importance on developing community relationships as highlighted in the table for community impact. Our community reach is extensive, through committees, events, and presentations. We consistently strive to maintain and create partnerships with stakeholders and stay informed of community trends.
Client Satisfaction	Client feedback indicates high levels of satisfaction in all programs. Clients indicate feeling supported by program staff, increasing their knowledge of skills and supports, and improving their overall quality of life by attending our services.

Safety & Wellness	The agency has experienced a significant increase in incident reports this last fiscal year, across many program areas, related to both staff and clients. Ensuring staff safety is paramount, and we continue to stay on top of trends.

- An agency this size has an impressive reach into the community. As an agency, we sit on 43 committees. Staff and Management attended many community events, with representation almost 100 times in the community, often with multiple departments present. Some key events included: The Stolen Sisters Walk, Langley Community Day, International Overdose Awareness Day, GlobalFest, National Indigenous Peoples Day, Stay Gold Car Show, and the Aldergrove Christmas Parade.
- As the agency continues to grow and add new programs, there is a greater need for a part-time accreditation coordinator to ensure the agency is compliant with COA standards.
- The workload for administrative and management staff increases as the agency grows and expands.
